

Agreement for Reciprocal Membership Privileges Between the Polish Physical Society and the Physical Society of Taiwan

The Polish Physical Society (hereafter, PPS) and the Physical Society of Taiwan (hereafter, TPS) mutually agree to enhance interactions among their members and to extend reciprocal membership privileges as outlined below.

1. Members of the PPS (TPS) may submit papers to the TPS (PPS) meetings with the same privileges and limitations as TPS (PPS) members;
2. Members of the PPS (TPS) may register at the TPS (PPS) meetings at member rates;
3. Both parties agree to exchange their respective journals, including but not limited to PPS's Abstracts (Programs and Abstracts of PPS meetings), Bimonthly Journal of Physics, and other physics journals managed by PPS, as well as TPS's Abstracts (Programs and Abstracts of TPS meetings) and other physics journals managed by TPS.
4. Both Societies agree to enhance the exchange of information on meetings, seminars, and workshops organized by either society;
5. Both societies agree to encourage bilateral visits by officers to facilitate direct exchanges of views and to strengthen the relationship between the societies.

This agreement shall come into force on the 1st January 2026 and it shall remain in force until either the PPS or the TPS gives 6 months' notice of termination or a wish to renegotiate or amend the agreement.
